Saving the planet one lunchroom at a time

The Lakewood City Council recognized nine award winners and two special recognition recipients during an April ceremony for the 2013 Sustainability Awards, which honors members of the community who are leading the way to a more sustainable future. The recipients and their projects are listed below.

Defender of the Planet recipients

- The Marquis sisters, Summer, 10, and Autumn, 7, from Devinny Elementary School in Lakewood stand between the trash and recycling cans in the lunchroom every day to ensure fellow students throw milk cartons in the recycling bin, and they even dig through the trash to remove cartons mistakenly put there.
- Alameda Clothing Closet at Alameda International High School opened in 2012 to recycle donated clothing while providing free clothing to families in need in the community.

Community Sustainability Award recipients

- St. Paul's Episcopal Church installed a photovoltaic system that supplies 85 percent of the church's electrical power and instituted a sustainability outreach program.
- Eaton Senior Communities has several sustainability programs in place for this older adult facility including recycling, garden planters and water-conserving bathroom fixtures and faucets.
- Village Roaster, a Lakewood coffee shop, has an energy-efficient coffee roaster, eco-friendly to-go cups, composting and other sustainable practices in place.

- St. Anthony Hospital has a sustainability dashboard to track its 50 energy conservation strategies throughout the hospital.

Bruce Peoples Eco-Employee Award recipients

- Head Start LEED Certification was awarded to the City's 11th Avenue Head Start facility because of its numerous energy-efficient components.
- Paperless Payroll for Lakewood employees has eliminated the need to print 39,000 checks or direct deposit slips and 39,000 envelopes annually.

- Green Mountain Recreation Center has replaced all its cleaning supplies, paper products and soap with more sustainable and environmentally friendly products.

Special Recognition

- Lutheran Church of the Master installed a solar array on the church's roof that provides 100 percent of its typical electrical needs.

• Lakewood Church of Christ installed 350 solar panels, enough to provide 100 percent of the church's typical electrical needs.

Letter from the Mayor

Celebration marks transportation achievement

April 26, 2013, was a truly historic day for Lakewood. After 18 years of planning, hundreds of meetings, input from thousands of people and countless words written and spoken on the topic, the W Rail Line opened for passenger service. Together we did it!

Building a $700 million rail line along a narrow right of way through an established residential neighborhood was an extraordinarily complex undertaking that required unprecedented collaboration among the Regional Transportation District, our City staff, residents, businesses, contractors, subcontractors, utility companies and neighboring jurisdictions. It was a monumental accomplishment, one worthy of celebrating, and that is exactly what this community and this region did that glorious weekend.

The ceremonial first train pulled into the Lakewood-Wadsworth Station at 9:30 Friday morning. RTD General Manager Phil Washington and Board Chair Lorraine Anderson joined our City Council and past Mayors Steve Burkholder and Linda Morton to cut the ribbon at our signature station. Then, it was a quick hop back on the train for the ride to the official dedication at the Jefferson County Government Center-Golden Station.

There we were greeted by a scene I will simply never forget. Over a thousand people from Lakewood, Golden, Jefferson County, Denver, indeed the entire region, had gathered to celebrate a true regional milestone: the opening of the first FasTracks line. The mood was jovial, and there was a groundswell of genuine excitement. Gov. John Hickenlooper, U.S. Sen. Michael Bennet and many other regional officials were on hand to remark on the significance of this occasion. My lasting memory of the day will be the unabashed joy on the faces of everyone there.

April 27 was Lakewood's chance to party! That beautiful Saturday morning began with a celebration atop the brand new parking garage for the Lakewood-Wadsworth Station. Gathered were Lakewood City Council members from five decades, Planning Commission members from 1995 to present, City staff, community partners, businesses and neighbors who have all worked so hard on this project for so many years. It was a time to laugh, share stories and reflect on the magnitude of this milestone.

Then, it was off to the parties at each of Lakewood's seven stations. Recognizing this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to showcase Lakewood, more than 100 volunteers spent months planning these activities. At the Lakewood-Wadsworth Station, our past, present and future were on display. Over at the Lamar Station, the 40W Arts District created an arts festival. The Eiber neighborhood showed off the benefits of living 10 minutes from both downtown and the mountains at the Garrison Station. At the Federal Center stop, St. Anthony Hospital, the West Chamber, West Metro Fire and other partners featured the many goings-on in and around Lakewood's largest employment center.

Rides on the W Line were free that day and tens of thousands of metro area residents came out to experience this new transportation option. I saw families, couples, seniors, youth, all enjoying the smooth, quiet ride down the tracks. There is something about trains that brings out the kid in all of us! In fact, by mid-afternoon, the new train was so popular it was actually difficult to get on and off, but that didn't seem to stop anyone from enjoying the day. Everywhere I went I saw smiles and a sense of wonder about the boundless possibilities of the new line.

In fact, while the weekend marked the culmination of 18 years of work, it also represents an exciting new beginning for all of us in Lakewood. We'll learn how to ride downtown for work, sporting events or just dinner, as Ina, my wife, and I did that first Sunday evening. In less than three years, we will be connected to the world by rail through DIA when the East Line opens to the airport. And, by 2020 we will be able to get to many parts of the region as most of the FasTracks system will be up and running.

Our city will see a new kind of transit-oriented development near our stations, and with it, new choices for employment, housing, education, shopping and recreation. April 26 was indeed a memorable day in Lakewood's history, and it was wonderful to see so many of you out there enjoying it!

Whole lot of dancing going on for W Line

Let's talk about the W Rail Line! Did you attend the various parties along the line? If you didn't, you missed out on some great fun and activities. Joe Margotte, owner of Chicago Beef and Dogs, and his lovely bride danced up a storm with one of the bands at the Lakewood-Wadsworth Station. They are very light on their feet and clearly enjoy dancing. It felt like everyone was dancing along the W Line on Saturday, April 27. The cars were filled to the brim with people from all over the metro area. We heard children exclaiming "AWESOME!" several times as they traveled through our city. Adults were also awed by what they saw and how convenient it was to access the various stations whether they were pushing strollers, riding bicycles, or in a wheelchair. Everyone was "dancing!" whether literally or just dancing in their hearts with all the fun activities along the line.

We can't thank our residents and City staff volunteers enough for all their hard work in organizing the various station parties. There are too many to name, so we'd like to give a heartfelt "THANK YOU!" to everyone who was involved. Your efforts made the opening a special day for thousands of people. You should be proud of your accomplishments and your involvement in such a historic day.

While that was certainly the biggest event in recent Lakewood history, we'd also like to promote a few more items that are specific to Ward 2 starting with the 40 West Arts District. As you have heard, 40 West is the metro area's newest arts district, and our new Lamar Station serves as the gateway to all the events, exhibits and performances the arts district offers. The Edge Theatre has recently relocated to the 40 West Arts District building at 1560 Teller St. The theater's productions run the gamut from sobering to comedic to spellbinding. For a list of upcoming shows, visit www.theEproject.org. Live theater right here in Lakewood, just off Colfax - what else could you ask for?

Many of you may remember that Surfside Park opened last year near West Ninth Avenue and Sheridan Boulevard. It'll be open again this year beginning on Saturday, May 25. We've met people from throughout the metro area who are thrilled to have such an amenity nearby. Many are grandparents who want a place where their grandchildren could play in the water while the grandparents relax in the shade, and they could bring their own food and beverages for when the children want a snack. Surfside provides great play options for all ages and at a great price, $1 admission fee.

Lastly, plans are underway for developing Two Creeks Park, north of West 10th Avenue, east of Wadsworth Boulevard, south of West 12th Avenue and west of Teller Street. Numerous residents attended a series of community meetings to help plan the park and the site plan, which is the vision for the park. The plan includes enhancing the creek to allow for playing in the water as well as a bridge and a children's play area. City staff will continue to look for ways to fund the park now that the site plan has been completed.

We have much to be thankful for in Lakewood, and we hope to see you all this summer enjoying the new amenities — W Rail Line, 40 West, Surfside, as well as our favorites, O'Kane Park, Morse Park, and Whitlock Recreation Center to name a few. Keep dancing!

Drought restrictions remain in place

Don't let the spring snows fool you. The Denver area is still in the second year of a serious drought. Despite the recent snowstorms and rain, mandatory watering restrictions are still in place at press time, and residents are being asked to cut their water use by 20 percent.

Denver Water has declared a Stage 2 drought, prompting the watering restrictions. All homes and businesses in the city are served by water providers that buy water from Denver Water. Given that, those providers are contractually required to have their customers follow Denver Water's drought restrictions.

Those water providers also may impose more restrictive rules during the drought. You should contact your water provider to learn more. Contact information and phone numbers for your water provider appear on your water bill. If you are unsure of who your water provider is, you can call 303-987-7615 to find out.

Watering restrictions and other information is available at www.Lakewood.org/savewater along with the list of the water providers in the city.

Denver Water has instituted a drought surcharge on water use in part to encourage a 20 percent reduction in water use. Fines also are in place for violations of the watering restrictions. Please contact your water provider for specific information on surcharges and fines.

When to water

- Single-family residential properties with addresses ending in odd numbers: Saturday, Wednesday.
- Single-family residential properties with addresses ending in even numbers: Sunday, Thursday.
- All others (multifamily, homeowner associations, commercial, industrial, government): Tuesday, Friday.
- Do not water during the heat of the day between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.
- Do not water while it is raining or during high winds.

Other requirements on water use

- Annuals and vegetable gardens can be watered any day using drip irrigation or hand-held watering, but spray irrigation is only allowed on assigned watering days.
- Repair leaking sprinkler systems within 10 days.
- Do not waste water by letting it spray on concrete and asphalt.
- Residents may wash personal vehicles using only a bucket or a hand-held hose equipped with an automatic shutoff nozzle.
- Cleaning with water, except for immediate health or safety reasons, may occur only on assigned watering days and not between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Water may only be used for beneficial purposes and must not be wasted.

Effective ways to deal with the drought

- Water in cycles that allow water to soak into the ground rather than running off. For example, water each area or zone in your yard for only five minutes, but move through each zone three times to reach a total of 15 minutes for each zone.
- Plant drought-tolerant flowers and grasses or native plants.
- Visit Lakewood's Kendrick Lake Park, 9351 W. Jewell Ave., to see how beautiful drought-tolerant gardens can be. Learn more at "Principles for Xeriscaping" at www.Lakewood.org/SaveWater.

Apply for grant to help your neighborhood

Would your neighborhood benefit from having a new playground in the neighborhood park? Would building a missing link of sidewalk in your neighborhood really help? If so, then apply for the City's Neighborhood Participation Program.

The program offers grants for projects that neighborhood groups believe would make a difference in improving their neighborhoods. During the 20 years of the program, the grants have funded items such as sidewalk and bicycle path connections, picnic facilities and playgrounds at neighborhood parks and similar items. The grants offer an outstanding opportunity for neighborhood organizations to come together to make a difference in their neighborhoods.

A total of $160,000 is available for grants to neighborhoods in 2014. To be eligible, projects must provide a general benefit to the neighborhood and must be located on public property. An organized group representing the neighborhood also must submit an application to the program.

Applications and additional information is available at www.Lakewood.org/NPP, and the deadline to apply is Friday, Sept. 13, 2013.

Project proposals compete directly with other applications and are evaluated based on criteria including the benefit to the neighborhood, health and safety, compliance with the Lakewood Comprehensive Plan and the Community Resources Department's Comprehensive Master Plan as well as neighborhood support and maintenance requirements. The City Council makes the final selection of the projects to receive grants.

For more information, contact Holly Boehm at 303-987-7507 or holboe@lakewood.org.
